

AULOS®

SOPRANO AND ALTO RECORDER FOR THE DISABLED

This soprano recorder so designed that players who are handicapped because of finger disabilities can play as well, or almost as well, as people with normal dexterity. A person with any six usable fingers can play an entire chromatic scale from c'' to a''. If seven fingers are available in any combination, the range is extended by three semitones.

Alto recorder is designed to be used by players who have finger disabilities in one hand. By positioning of the body joints and tone holes the recorder can be used with either a left or right hand disability.

AULOS

The Most Suitable Recorder For Music Education

AULOS is the first recorder in the world successfully made from ABS synthetic resin, late in the 20th century.

The highly uniform quality is facilitated by their special interior structure based on many patents and by super precision molding. All AULOS recorders are not only in tune with themselves but in tune with each other from Garklein to Bass.
